Mackerel Notes.

The receipts of salt mackerel at Boston this week comprise 100 barrels from Ireland and 1175 barrels from Canada.

The New England catch of salt mackerel to date is 30,636 barrels.

The imports of fresh mackerel to date are 7674 barrels against 20,336 barrels last season.

The imports of new salt mackerel to date are 18,007 barrels, against 31,269 barrels at this time last year.

Fishing Fleet Movements.

Sch. Kineo, Capt. John G. Stream, is fitting for a shore salt herring trip, and when the cargo is secured the craft will go to Lubec, Me., to discharge.

NORTH BAY FLEET.Six of the Late Seiners Arrive Home Today.*Only Two of the Fleet Now Left To Arrive.

Six of the North Bay and late Cape Shore mackerel seining fleet arrived home this morning, leaving but two of the fleet now to arrive, schs. Parthia and Madonna.

Sch. Patrician has 130 barrels of salt mackerel, schs. Priscilla Smith and Electric Flash 100 barrels each, sch. Lena and Maud 80 barrels, sch. Victor, 90 barrels and sch. Hattie M. Graham 70 barrels.

All the skippers report that without doubt there was a big body of fish in the bay and on the Cape Shore this fall, but the almost continuous bad weather of September and October precluded any big catches, indeed they did well to get as many as they did.

Some are of the opinion that they stayed too long in the bay and did not come down off North Sydney soon enough, as large schools were off there for a few days, while the vessels were up off Souris. All agree that with good weather, all the vessels would probably have secured full trips.

At present there are 736 barrels of salt bay mackerel on the market. The total catch of the vessels which comprised the fleet will be about 966 barrels. No sales are yet recorded of fare on the market.

The Gorton-Pew Fisheries Co. will take the fare of its sch. Priscilla Smith.

SALT HERRING HERE.Sch. Senator Gardner Has First Newfoundland Cargo.*Capt Nelson Makes Interesting Report of the Situation.

Sch. Senator Gardner, Capt. Vincent Nelson, arrived from Bay of Islands, N. F., yesterday with 1300 barrels of salt herring, being the first of the Newfoundland herring fleet to arrive this season.

Last season the first arrival was sch. Maxime Elliott, on November 8.

Sch. Senator Gardner sailed from here October 1, being the third vessel to get away and has been gone a little short of seven weeks. The British sch. Minnie M. Cook with salt herring for this port, left Bay of Islands in company with the Gardner and her arrival is hourly expected.

At the time the Gardner sailed for home, November 7, herring were not very plenty. There had been no frost, but considerable snow had fallen. Several of the fleet were partly loaded.

Capt. Nelson said that there had been no friction and that everything was going along smoothly.

Herring had been seen in large numbers, schooling outside South Head, but had not struck in the Arms very heavily.

On the passage home sch. Senator Gardner met with head winds and four days of calm weather.

The fare of sch. Senator Gardner will go to the Gorton-Pew Fisheries Co., which owns the craft.

In speaking of the Nova Scotia vessels at Bay of Islands, Capt. Nelson said that some were under charter for this port and Boston, but that most of them would land their fare at Halifax and other Provincial ports.

Sch. Clintonia of this port is reported to have secured a full load of frozen herring and sailed for home Saturday or Sunday.

Sch. Corona is on the way home with fare of salt herring and sch. Ingomar will probably sail for home today, also with a full salt herring cargo.

The Le Have, N. S., sch. Ethel Oxner, cleared from there November 9, for Bay of Islands, N. F., for herring.

LOTS MORE POLLOCK.Many of the Fleet in This Morning with Big Fares.

The pollock fleet was right on its Sunday schedule yesterday, repeating its performance of last week, by arriving in goodly number and for the most part with large fares.

Up to 8 o'clock this morning 25 of the fleet had arrived with 750,000 pounds, while eight more are at Boston with 160,000 pounds, making a Sunday total of 910,000 pounds, quite a large amount of one kind of fresh round fish to arrive in one day.
